YOU MAY WIN SUCCESS

THERE'S AN AUTOMOBILE, PIANO AND OTHER PRIZES WAITING FOR AMBITIOUS PEOPLE

Just look back over the past two, four or five years. How many chances have you allowed to slip by? "Yes," you say, "it is easy to see where I could have done better if I had those years to live over again."

Right now you have a golden opportunity before you. Are you overlooking it? You have a chance to win a $850.00 Maxwell auto, a $400 Schiller piano and a choice of other prizes. If you have not taken advantage of other opportunities in the past, you can at least resolve not to let this one go by default. You can win the auto as easily as anyone. The main thing is to enter this contest and GIVE YOURSELF A CHANCE TO WIN.

The contest is still young. Today marks but the third day of its existence, and no one has a lead as yet that amounts to a great deal. You can still make a good start this week. Make a list of your friends, particularly if they are going away for the summer, and sign them up before they leave town. The News can be sent to them by mail to the beach, to any summer resort, or in fact, any place in the United States, or can be started to their permanent address later on, if they so desire.

It's organization and system that counts in this campaign, as well as enthusiasm and stick-to-it-iveness.

If you organize your campaign properly, get your friends interested, and in line, you can accomplish a great deal more than by your own unaided efforts, although in the end it is upon you, and you alone that the ultimate success of your campaign depends.

If you are one of the many who have not yet entered this contest, take another thought on the value of the prizes. The chance for gain in these dull times that you are passing up, for if you put forth the proper efforts you can win your choice of the $850.00 Maxwell touring car, the $400.00 Schiller piano, the scholarships to the Isaacs-Woodbury Business college, the $50 deposit at the First National bank of Glendale, a trip to either of the expositions, or any one of the other prizes to be announced later. And remember, if you do not win one of the many prizes offered, you get a ten per cent commission on every new subscription you turn in during the contest.

BAPTIST GOSPEL TEAM TONIGHT

Al Jennings, Charles Walraff. E. W. Kenrick, R. N. Moore, C. H. Cunningham, Jack Cole, A. L. Chandler, R. O. Wildman and other members of the Baptist gospel team, will hold forth at the local Baptist church this evening. Remarkable conversions are being recorded of late and the extent of the good work is beginning to be appreciated. Many invitations are coming to headquarters for members of the team to give their message. An extensive campaign is contemplated. Friday evening at the convention hall the team, under the leadership of Mr. Troy, Al Jennings and Charles Walraff, will hold a mass meeting in the city of Los Angeles. Notices will appear in the city press.

Just last Sunday Charles Walraff was converted. His statement of experience woke up the congregation. This man has great ability and is considered a good match for Jennings. Walraff will preach his first sermon next Sunday evening. He is worthy of a packed house.

ROBBINETTE CLUB

The Robbinette club, whose meetings will continue through the summer months in order to prepare their fall concert, were delightfully entertained at the home of Miss Zetie Steele Duncan, corner of Third and Central, Tuesday. These energetic young ladies are to represent Glendale musicians in the great electrical pageant to be held in Los Angeles the night of July 3, during the convention of the National Federation of Musical Clubs.

This pageant is to be a combination of electrical and musical floats. The Robbinette club will occupy one of the latter, with the Tone Weavers' club, which will represent the college of music of the University of Southern California, under the direction of Mme. Norma Rockhold Robbins.

NEEDLE EXPERTS MEET

The ladies of the Philanthropic Sewing club met Tuesday at the home of Mrs. W. D. MacRae, 1436 Salem street. Six members and two visitors were present. Quite a quantity of useful work was done, after which light refreshments were served.

THE STORY HOUR

MRS. DANFORD, ASSISTED BY MISS SCOTT, TO ENTERTAIN CHILDREN

Mothers of young children will be intensely interested in the announcement that a story hour is to be conducted at the Glendale library every Wednesday, beginning at 9 o'clock, commencing next Wednesday, June 23. Mrs. Danford and her library staff are so jubilant over the accommodations afforded them in the beautiful new building, which they doubly appreciate after the years in cramped quarters, that their enthusiasm knows no bounds, and they are planning to carry forward every phase of the work.

Mrs. Danford is especially happy with children and her plans for the story hour are bubbling over with enthusiasm. Her plans for the summer are to give the children one morning with artists, another with musicians, still others with poets, etc., the object being to mould and guide the trend of their reading. Each story is to have a moral, too, as well as being entertaining.

Mrs. Danford feels very fortunate in having for her assistant in this work with the children Miss Scott, a retired teacher, who is visiting here. Miss Scott has had wonderful educational advantages and her relationship with childhood is said to be most beautiful. She has kindly volunteered her services because she loves to keep in touch with children and her influence will be a blessing and a stimulus to the little ones.

The story hour as conducted by Mrs. Danford has always been a success, but she hopes to make this summer of still more profit and pleasure to the children. The subject of the story will be announced each week. As far as possible the stories will be illustrated with Perry pictures, photographs, etc.

The influence of these story hours on the life of the child cannot be overestimated. In these days children are brought into contact with much that is not cultural and uplifting and parents cannot afford that their children should miss an opportunity of this kind.

Children between the ages of five and ten will be welcomed, but adults will positively not be admitted.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY

The Woman's Missionary society of the Congregational church will meet tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 at the home of Mrs. Button, 1309 West First street. An interesting program will be presented. Mrs. Chambers will give an address on "Some Things Home Missionary Societies Have Done." Mrs. Coral Harrison Sloan will give a Bible reading as part of the devotional exercises.

ART EXHIBIT

Miss Nellie Huntington Gere, director of fine arts in the State Normal school and well-known artist, and Miss Helen Clarke Chandler, who recently held an exhibit in Los Angeles of her wonderful desert pictures, visited Edward Henry Weston at his "little studio" in Tropico. Miss Gere has invited Mr. Weston to hold a "one-man" exhibit of his work in the gallery of the Fine Arts building this fall. This is honor indeed.

FIRST M. E. CHURCH

On account of the election of a lay delegate and reserve to the Lay Electoral conference at San Diego, it is important that every member of the church be present tonight at the prayer service. The prayer service will be brief so that we will get out at our usual time.

OLIVE CROP EXPECTED

Reliable estimates give the acreage of bearing olive trees for 1915 at about 13,000, of which 2000 acres will produce their first crop. The non-bearing acreage at the end of 1915 is estimated at 18,000.

HAS NEW CANNERY

With a capacity of 60,000 cans per day, the new plant at Pomona expects to be in operation when the peach and apricot season begins. It will employ about 200 women and girls and about forty men, with a payroll of about $30,000 for the summer.

FLYER FOR CALIFORNIA

The Sacramento Union announces that the Santa Fe has about completed arrangements for a fruit train to run from Stockton to Chicago on a schedule which will deliver ripe fruit and fresh vegetables in Chicago eighteen hours earlier than at present.

A QUIET WEDDING

REV. EDMONDS OFFICIATES AT THE MARRIAGE OF MISS MARIE QUINCH

An interesting event occurred on Tuesday evening, June 15, at the Presbyterian manse, 421 Cedar street, when the Rev. Walter E. Edmonds united the lives of Miss Marie Quinch of Glendale and Mr. William L. Fowler of Riverside. The service was very quiet, but impressive, only the bride's parents being present to witness the ceremony. The bride was most charmingly attired in a traveling suit of a beautiful sand shade, with hat and other accessories of the same color, and carried a bouquet of bride's roses.

Immediately following the ceremony the party motored to Pasadena, where a wedding luncheon was served to the immediate relatives at the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. James Barnett, 85 North Chester avenue. The decorations were of pink and white sweet peas and the dainty color scheme was carried out as far as possible in the daintily served menu.

Mr. and Mrs. Fowler left this morning for San Diego, where they will spend their honeymoon.

Mr. Fowler is employed by the Santa Fe at Riverside and is a young man of most excellent character and habits. The romance began when Miss Quinch resided in Riverside. The bride has a very large circle of friends in that city and in Glendale, where she has been prominent in the work of the Presbyterian church. She is a stenographer and was employed for a time in the office of the street superintendent of the city of Glendale and also in the office of the Glendale Evening News. At both places she made many friends by her kindly manner.

FLAG DAY AT THE ELKS

The large and enthusiastic crowd that thronged the Elks' lodge rooms on Monday, Flag Day, was not disappointed by the program presented. Flag Day is peculiarly dear to the hearts of all true Elks. The order is practically based on the flag, and all about the flag is naturally of interest to the brethren. They were therefore greatly pleased by the treat provided for them.

Naturally the music was patriotic. One number, a medley of southern airs, elicited great applause. As the orchestra played "Dixie," "Maryland" and others, Mr. William Herman West broke in with "My Old Kentucky Home," singing with much feeling and expression and evoking great enthusiasm. Mr. West also delighted the audience with his dramatic and appropriate reading, "Who Gave You the Name of Old Glory?"

Past Exalted Ruler Henry W. Brown, who is endowed with great natural oratorical powers, thrilled his audience with his patriotic address on "The Flag." He followed the flag and the achievements it had inspired through scenes of pathos and power and told why it had so inspired Americans. His address was listened to with intense interest and evoked prolonged applause. Following is the program:

Music, "Star Spangled Banner," orchestra.

Prayer, Dr. C. Irving Mills, D. D., lodge chaplain.

"Flag Record," Brother Wm. C. Wattles.

Song, "Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean," Brother Walter Butterly.

Altar service, Esquire Albert D. Pearce and officers.

Song, opening ode, "Auld Lang Syne," officers and members.

"Elks' Tribute to the Flag," Bro. Albert D. Pearce.

Music, "Medley of Southern Airs," orchestra.

Reading, "Who Gave You the Name of Old Glory?" (James Whitcomb Riley), Past Exalted Ruler Wm. Herman West.

Address, Past Exalted Ruler Henry W. Brown.

Song, "America," audience.

LIFETIME IS SHORT

The lifetime of man is short when compared with the past and the future. He is only on earth a few short years, and yet how egotistical many of us become, and how we make it seem that the world will stop its course in the heavens when we shuffle off of this old earth. The truth is, we come and go without being missed except in a little community where we are personally known.

SENIOR CLASS PLAY

PRODUCTION DEMONSTRATES FINE HISTRIONIC POWERS OF YOUNG FOLK

How vast an advance has been made in the finer parts of education and how great has been the mental development of the American boy and girl within the past few years, was abundantly manifest at the high school play Tuesday evening. Such a production by professionals would not have been considered very inferior in the days when David Belasco, as a young aspirant to histrionic honors, was barnstorming throughout the northern counties of California. There were good actors in those days of the gold excitement and first-class ones, too, who were glad to put up with stage settings even in places like Virginia City, that the senior class players of Glendale would have rejected with scorn.

Miss Abbie C. Terry, teacher of oral expression and music in the high school, dramatized the well-known story and trained the company that gave so good an account of itself Tuesday evening.

The stage was admirably furnished for each of the four acts. The various settings were made in the high school itself in the woodworking department under the direction of Prof. Hildebrand. The settings of the various scenes were admirably finished and highly creditable to Mr. Hildebrand and his handy boys.

As such productions go in high schools, "Daddy Longlegs" is entitled to stand in the first rank. The various participants in the touching drama played their parts with considerable dramatic force and some of them with an insight and interpretation that did them and their teacher much credit.

Briefly, the play tells the story of an orphan girl of great beauty, Judy Abbott (Dorothy Hobbs), who has been brought up in the "John Greer home," an orphan institution that has all the worst features of such institutions. Judy is a girl of natural genius. She tells stories to amuse the other children; draws caricatures of the trustees and is generally looked upon by those sage directors of the institution as on the broad road to destruction.

Cyrus Wyckoff (Ben Nichols) and the two trustees (Wayne Smith and Wallace Cramer), in company with Jervis Pendleton (Basil Boon) and Miss Pritchard (Inez McKinney), a philanthropic lady who has a profound interest in Judy, visit the home. Then occurred a scene that was cleverly given by the young girls who represented the orphans (Cecilia Petersen, Vivian Engle, Adele Drake, Miriam Garrott, Gwendolen Claflin and Florence Wheeler). All these children showed the results of careful training and also developed natural gifts of acting, with the unconsciousness of children. Tommie (Walter Beach) was especially good and exhibited quite a sense of boy's humor.

Judy falls into disgrace before the trustees, who propose to throw her out into the world. She defends herself with spirit and still further rouses the anger of the Christian directors who believe that the poor should be content with that estate which God has been pleased to give them. In this attitude they are backed up by Mrs. Lippet (which was a fine bit of character acting by Merle Oliver). Miss Pritchard interests Jervis Pendleton, one of the directors of the institution, in Judy, and he agrees to send her through college without letting her know who is her benefactor. Judy catching a glimpse of his figure as he goes into the carriage dubs him "Daddy Longlegs," but remains ignorant of who her benefactor is and only communicates with him by letter.

The second act opens in a college girl's room, with Judy, Julia Pendleton (Maybeth Pigg), Mrs. Pendleton (Pauline Hamilton), James McBride (Merlin Wilson), Sallie McBride (Grace Crampton) and Miss Pritchard in evidence. Mrs. Pendleton is seriously concerned as to her daughter's companion, Judy. She is anxious to know her family, her history and her connections. Judy shocks her terribly by her flippancy and contempt for "family." Jervis Pendleton arrives and adds to the dramatic quality of the scene. At last Judy and Jervis are left alone and a clever dialogue insues. Here are seen the first manifestations of Jervis' interest in Judy. She is, like a young girl, brimful of her new life and tells him about her "old guardian." Here some fine college singing was given with the real aroma of the undergrade and the "rah-rah" boy.

Act 3. Judy is at the farmhouse of Mrs. Semple (Kathleen Dodge), who gave a fine piece of character work as the garrulous, gossiping middle-aged lady infatuated with her

PLANS TO REACH ALL

HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY AIMS AT EDUCATION AND INSPIRATION

In accordance with plans outlined in the beginning of its career, the Horticultural society of Glendale will aim more at education and inspiration than at money. In all its efforts to encourage the upgrowth of a love of flowers among all parts of the community, the society will endeavor to avoid inflicting expense on its members. When the autumn flower show is held, as is now being planned, no demand will be made on the business community for financial assistance. Everything will be simple and within the reach of ordinary people.

Established on such lines as these the society bids fair to have astonishing success. A meeting of the society will be held Saturday at 2 p. m. in the high school, when many prominent flower growers and lovers of flowers will be present. Principal Moyse, Prof. Houdyshel, Prof. Turner and other experts will be there ready to assist with valuable advice. Everybody is invited to be present and to assist in making the society a great success.

Mrs. Nanno Woods, secretary of the society, says that already a great many young people have made inquiries as to their eligibility for membership in the society. Every encouragement will be given to all to join and young people will be made especially welcome. The society also hopes to do much to encourage a love of flowers in the young and one of its aims is to help them by advice and otherwise.

Everybody is invited to be present Saturday and to be prepared to ask questions and to take an active part in the proceedings.

NURSERY FOR BABIES AND PAPA

The congregation of the Glendale Congregational church think that their pastor, Dr. E. H. Willisford, has put across a new one. Sunday morning the pastor announced that some of the ladies had made arrangements to care for the babies and younger children during the hour of the Sunday morning service, so that mothers might have the opportunity of attending church.

The doctor then announced that any woman who was not able to attend service because her husband did not like to stay at home alone, could bring him and put him in the nursery with the youngsters and that he would be properly cared for and returned at the close of the service in as good condition as that in which he was received.

The preacher stated that he had found in Glendale several women who had told him that they would love to come to church, but that their husbands did not like to go to church and did not like being left alone. It is expected that the nursery proposition will solve some household difficulties and that the church attendance will increase.

CARPENTERS ELECT

At a well-attended meeting of Carpenters' Local Union No. 563 Tuesday night, the annual election of officers was held. The results of the voting were as follows:

President, W. F. Hartley; vice-president, H. Van Bethusen; treasurer, Wm. Van Osdoll; recording secretary, J. A. DeMuth; financial secretary, R. S. Henry; conductor, H. A. Pennington; warden, J. S. Cleeland; trustees, H. A. Pennington and E. Kirri.

Members present were of the opinion that building conditions would improve greatly during the coming summer months and expressed the fact quite freely among themselves.

FRANCISCAN FRIAR BLESSES MISSION PLAYERS

Father O'Keefe, the oldest Franciscan friar on the Pacific coast, attended the Mission Play for the first time the other day. He came in his Franciscan garb and sandals and was the center of all eyes.

Between acts the aged father went upon the stage and gave the players his blessing. It is doubtful if such an event ever happened in the United States before.

Father O'Keefe is seventy-two years of age and has walked up and down El Camino Real, going from mission to mission, more times than did Father Junipero Serra.

MUNICIPAL BAND CONCERT

The Glendale municipal band concert will be held at the city hall on Friday evening of this week instead of Thursday. The change is made on account of the Glendale Union high school commencement exercises being held Thursday evening.

UNIQUE GARDEN PARTY

LADIES OF THE SEVENTH DAY ADVENTIST CHURCH HOLD OPEN-AIR PICNIC

On the spacious lawn and grounds at the home of Mrs. David J. Graham, 235 East Third street, Tuesday, a large and enthusiastic number of ladies, with their children, and a sprinkling of men, gathered at the invitation of the "Get-Acquainted" society of the Seventh Day Adventist church. This society has been doing much excellent work throughout the past season in the way of bringing together the various members of this important and growing congregation.

Not the least successful of these gatherings of the year was that which was held Tuesday on the grounds graciously given by Mrs. Graham for the occasion. Amid clustering vines, beautiful shade trees, trim walks, a delightful orange grove and an orderly array of fruit trees of all kinds, the assembly experienced all the delights of real ranch life in the heart of the city.

The ladies of the society had prepared a hearty lunch, with all varieties of cooling beverages pleasant to the palate in the hot weather. The large company, numbering about ninety, partook of their noon-day repast under the shade of trees and vines and kindliness and mirth reigned o'er the scene. After lunch the following program was given:

Song, "The Rosary" (Nevin), Mrs. Shadrach.

Piano solo, "Minuet in E Flat" (Mozart), Prof. George Miller.

Address, "Christian Sociability," Mrs. Bond.

Violin solo, "Minuet in D" (Mozart), Miss S. Wessels.

Recitation, "I'd Druther," John La Dew.

Song, "Kathleen Mavourneen," Norman J. King.

Reading, "The City," Mrs. David J. Graham.

Address, "Eucouragement of the Prohibitionist Wave Over the World," Mrs. Gaylord.

Address, "Temperance," Mrs. Smart.

Recitation, "Old Mose," Mrs. St. Clair.

Reading, "Rosa," Miriam Hope Comstock.

Duet, "He Knew It All," Mary Frank and Stella Strickman.

Much interest was taken in the addresses of Mrs. Gaylord and Mrs. Smart, as the first lady is a past president of the Glendale W. C. T. U. and the second is president of the same society. Mrs. Bond's address on "Christian Sociability" was timely and instructive.

Mrs. Susine Wessels' skilled violin playing was a feature of the occasion and she was obliged to give an encore, responding by playing Franz Drdla's charming "Souvenir." Prof. Miller's piano playing and J. Norman King's fine solo work added greatly to the charm of the program.

Following were those present: Mrs. A. Frank, Mrs. E. Bond, Mrs. Lucille Bond, Miss Mary Frank, Mrs. Nellie Simpson, Mrs. Dave Hibbin, Miss Lela Bullock, Prof. and Mrs. Geo. Miller, Mrs. Dr. Burrows, Mrs. St. Clair, Mrs. Kimlin, Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Kane, Mr. W. Hyatt, Mrs. Hyatt, Mrs. Chas. Wanderlick, Mrs. Ida Hibben, Mrs. Learned, Mrs. Dew, Mr. Anderson, Mrs. Anderson, Miss P. Olds, Miss S. Wessels, Mrs. Baker, Mrs. Farnsworth, Mrs. Ford, Mr. C. Burnham, Mrs. Charles Burnham, Mrs. Bidwell, Mrs. Dr. John Leadsworth, Mrs. La Dew, Mrs. F. W. Graham, Miss Virginia Graham, Mrs. Scott, Mrs. Dr. McArthur, Dr. Thomas, Mrs. J. Olds, Mrs. L. Mintner, Mrs. S. M. Kerne, Mrs. S. Adock, Mrs. J. M. Swaner, Miss W. J. Simpson, Miss J. M. Parritt, Miss Mary M. Trautwein, Miss Doris Miller, Mrs. J. E. Morrison, Mrs. D. E. Jones, J. H. Sloan, Mrs. J. H. Sloan, B. R. Parritt, Mrs. B. Berglund, Mrs. Beatrice Francy, Mrs. Blanche Nunn, Mrs. Ella Francey, Mrs. J. F. McArthur, Mrs. Ida Carmichael, Mrs. Roy Carmichael, Mrs. Mae Staub, Miss Tola Ebe, Mrs. O. E. Jones, Mrs. E. A. Smith, Mrs. J. W. Sturdevant, Mrs. Geo. Thomason, Geneva M. C. Comstock, Marion Hope Comstock, Willis Hall, Mrs. H. E. Gaylord, Miss L. V. Learned, Mrs. Frederickson, Mrs. S. E. Strickland, M. E. Moss, Miss Perle J. Olds, Miss Susine Wessels, Mrs. Farnsworth, J. Garland Dew, Edna L. Reaser and M. B. Morey.

Besides these there were about thirty children who accompanied their parents and played to their hearts' content under the spreading shade trees. The "Get-Acquainted" ladies lived up to their title Tuesday and did much to promote friendly intercourse between many members of the church who had not met before.

The town that stands together is then and there already on that high road—united we win, divided we deserve to hang separately!

EYES AND NO EYES

People of an older generation and those who are conversant with books will call to mind a story which used to be a favorite in the old school readers—"Eyes and No Eyes." It was the story of two boys who were permitted to have a holiday and on their return home the one boy reported that he had never passed a more wretchedly dull day; that there was nothing to see in that part of the country and that he was sorry that he had not stayed at home.

On the other boy's return he was full of all the wonderful things he had seen—birds, squirrels, golden orioles' nests, a beaver, a snake, wild flowers innumerable, and last, but not least, a patch of berries which he had picked and brought with him. It turned out on inquiry that both boys had traveled the same road—the one had eyes, the other no eyes.

There are vast differences between people in this respect. Some people never observe anything; others can tell you details the most minute. Indeed, so uncommon is the habit of accurate observation that twenty eye-witnesses of an event will differ regarding its accompanying details in the most extraordinary manner. This inaccuracy and unreliability is a well-recognized fact in jurisprudence.

There can be little doubt that from the earliest years children should be taught the value of observation and the practice thereof. The habit makes life full of interest and pleasure to those who have cultivated it. Take the ordinary child; it will ask you a hundred questions in as many minutes. How many people are there who can keep pace with these questions; yet of all the cruel things in the world, that of stifling the laudable curiosity of a growing child is the most cruel. What a pity to say "Be quiet" or "Don't ask such questions," when the child is exercising one of its natural tendencies and one that rightly directed might be of immense value to the world.

The habit of observation has every possibility of developing into the habit of invention. It was observation that taught James Watt the properties of steam; it was observation that taught Edison the secrets of electric power. There are possibly budding inventors in every graduating class. Like the flowers that waste their sweetness on the desert air, they may never bless the world with any fruit of their powers.

About, around us, above us; in the ocean at our doors; on the mountains that gird our city round, are myriad wonders in flower, and weed; food fish and game fish; shy denizen of the woods, wild haunter of the rocks—if we only had the eyes to see them. Not a mote in the sunbeam, not a pebble on the shore, not a seed far blown into the desert but contributes to the wisdom and lore of those who seek in all things the true knowledge which is power.

It is from this kind of acquired knowledge, the knowledge of daily things, whether in nature or in mankind, that comes one of man's richest possessions. The Germans have a proverb, "Kunst machts gunst." That is to say, the skill that comes from practical observation and practice makes profit. It is a valuable possession and becomes a possession of those who never fail to observe and note all that is going on around them.

MEXICO'S EXTREMITY

If the United States were inclined to be cynical it might easily pervert the old proverb by saying "Mexico's extremity is America's opportunity." That Mexico is in extremity is too apparent to be gainsaid. Mexico is so reduced that even in these days of blasted national hopes there is none so poor as do her reverence.

In this hour of darkness, in this awful extremity when there seems to be no eye to pity and no hand to save, suddenly a hand is stretched forth. This friendly offer of help comes from the quarter least expected to lend its aid—the hated and much-cursed land of the Gringo.

The jingoes of the United States have been talking loudly of intervention in Mexico. Those who possess oil and mining concessions freely bestowed on them in the days of Diaz' lavish liberality to foreigners, have been more than anxious that President Wilson should intervene in Mexico to the confusion of the natives and the everlasting profit of the concessionaire.

Demanding intervention and with an unscrupulous and credulous press at their service, the annexationists have used every means in their power to get the United States to take the high hand with Mexico; but their efforts have been in vain. President Wilson has kept on the even tenor of his way and heeded not the wild cries and shouts of execration that have greeted him from many quarters because he had determined to refrain from rash action in this case.

The wisdom of the president's course is becoming manifest now that the impasse between the two factions in Mexico is becoming apparent. Modern quick-firing weapons seem to have brought about a stalemate in Mexico as well as in Europe. Neither the Carranza nor the Villa faction appears to have hopes of ultimate triumph. The country is getting poorer every day and gaunt famine stalks throughout what once were fertile fields.

Villa, for the moment, is exhausted. Carranza, for the moment, is obstinate. Meantime there has grown up a party that is willing and anxious to have the trouble settled and has already said to Villa and Carranza, "A plague on both your houses." Working with this party the United States should be able to bring about peace. It is not unlikely that Villa, in the hour of his abasement, will be willing to aid; indeed he has already signified his intention of doing so.

It would be a mighty triumph for President Wilson, for the United States, and for the cause of peaceful arbitrament of troubles national or international, were Mexico to cast out Carranza and rely on the good offices of the United States to restore peace.

If something like this be not done, Mexico is doomed to a fate that is as bad as anything ever inflicted on that unfortunate country by Cortez or his fellows. Whatever may be the solution, it is becoming clearer every day that the United States cannot tolerate on its borders a center of such trouble, disease, murder and other ills as is to be found in Mexico at present.

LESSONS OF FLAG DAY

There is much that is valuable in the observance of a national day such as Flag Day. It stops the common citizen on the route of everyday life and bids him pause and remember, if only for a moment, the "pit out of which he was digged."

How valuable such a lesson may be is seen in the fact that while all Europe is weltering in the whirlpool of war, the United States stands out from the chaos, clear-eyed, rational and yet ready to defend its own rights. The lesson comes to every citizen, but with double force to those who have acquired citizenship in this country, to be loyal to the land that was to them a refuge and a hope in an hour when possibly there was no redemption in the land of their birth.

The Stars and Stripes stands for freedom from all foreign entanglements. Hoisted from a million mastheads and flagpoles on Flag Day, it symbolizes all that is best in humanity and while there is not one of its sons, legitimate or adopted, that would not be willing to die for its starry beauty and all that it represents, it is a much more difficult thing to get some of them to forget the old lands and to live in peace and harmony in the new.

It is in the daily life of the nation that the truths which the flag symbolizes realize themselves. The real life of the nation lies among the vast multitude of its common humanity. Forgetting the things which are behind and looking forward to those that are before, let all strive earnestly for the upgrowth of a unified nationality in which there is neither British nor German, French nor Austrian, Russian nor Turk, but the United States is all and in all.

With this ideal ever before us we can make of this country all that its founders saw, when in rapt vision, born out of the blood and dust of the War of Independence, they beheld afar off the nations of the world flocking to the flag and the upgrowth of the greatest power the world has ever known—a power born in liberty and cradled in justice.

INVITE THE CHILDREN

As school is closing, we wish to extend to the children a hearty welcome to a lovely library home. The staff is so stimulated by the beauty of the new quarters, they expect to leave nothing undone that goes to make up a pleasant and profitable summer for the children.

The student doing summer work is urged to seek help at the library.

Children wishing entertainment will find books of that nature, with a staff not only eager to assist in book selection, but also ready to recommend subjects for suitable reading. The following is a list of books of universal interest:

LARGE SUM FOR MISSIONS

The Woman's Home Missionary society of the First Methodist church met at the home of the president, Mrs. C. W. Spickerman, 236 North Maryland avenue, Tuesday afternoon. While the number attending was not so large as usual on account of the warm weather, the interest was just as keen by those who came. The treasurer, Mrs. G. F. Taylor, read the annual report and great encouragement was found in the fact that this band of women had raised $423 this year for the worthy cause of home missions.

The following officers were elected for the new year:

President, Mrs. C. W. Spickerman.
Vice-president, Miss Olive Marsh.
Recording secretary, Mrs. C. W. Ingledue.
Corresponding secretary, Mrs. C. D. Shattuck.
Treasurer, Mrs. G. F. Taylor.
Mite box secretary, Miss Luella Collins.
Secretary of literature, Mrs. T. A. Wright.
Superintendent of Queen Esther circle, Mrs. Arrington.

Mrs. T. A. Wright had charge of the program. The last chapter of the study book was ably discussed by Mrs. Wright, assisted by the different members.

This society is beginning the new year with great enthusiasm and expects to accomplish even more than the past year.

The truly honest man can see and does see that his business rival is equally honest, equally earnest, equally honorable. You can safely doubt the doubter.

The round table of friendly thought and friendly discussion is worth as much today as it was in the days of the Good King of Britain!

Don't keep on grouching — have yourself examined—maybe you have dropped a monkeywrench into your mental cogbox.

PASADENA STAR—MARCH 3—

"Do we all know that living and working in Tropico there is a photographer whose works compare favorably with the very best in painting? His name is Edward Henry Weston, and he has now on exhibition at the Shakespeare Club photographs that are true works of art and well worth a critical inspection."

"SATAN SANDERSON" AT PALACE GRAND TONIGHT

Tonight (Wednesday) Orrin Johnson has been booked in a film version of "Satan Sanderson" at the Palace Grand.

"Satan Sanderson," in addition to possessing many poignant situations and numerous novel climaxes, is blessed with a strain of majestic romance and sentiment that trickles throughout the plots and counterplots like a crystal brook through a mountain glen. It is the story of a wayward son whose waywardness is inherited from a wayward father, who in the autumn of his life turned for the better. The taint is in the son and it takes true love and faithful sweetheart to bring his manly traits to the surface. With Orrin Johnson in the leading role and Irene Warfield in the role of the blind sweetheart, it constitutes one of the biggest and best human interest films yet constructed. Produced by B. A. Rolfe's studio, Hollywood, under the direction of Jack Noble, its varied topics, its splendid action and the telling story which unravels throughout the mile of film, it is bound to strike a responsive chord among photoplay patrons who admire the better sort of motion picture stories.

NORTH GLENDALE

Mrs. J. E. Howes of 1605 Ruth street left today by boat for Portland, Ore., where she will spend the summer with her father and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther D. Eastman of 1621 Burchett street entertained with a five hundred party last Saturday evening at their attractive home, which was beautifully decorated for the occasion with yellow and white flowers, Shasta daisies predominating. The guests who enjoyed the delightful occasion included Mr. and Mrs. Clem Brubaker, Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Maranville, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Rathbone, Mr. Glenn Stanton, Miss Ruth Williams and Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Stanton, all of North Glendale.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Miles of 914 Randolph street entertained as their guests the first of the week Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ritz from Peoria, Ills. Mr. Ritz is a well-known importer of queensware crockery and he, with his wife, is enjoying an extended tour throughout the West.

JOHN A. FISCHER

John A. Fischer passed away at his late residence, 619 Brand boulevard, Tropico, June 14 at 11:30 p. m., the cause of his death being septicemia.

Mr. Fischer was born in Germany and had lived in Tropico for the past five years. He leaves to mourn his death a wife, one sister, Mrs. A. Goldman of Glendale, and a nephew, Mr. N. J. Hohnholz of Los Angeles.

Funeral services will be held from his late residence Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock, the Scovern-Letton-Frey Undertaking company in charge. Interment will be in Forest Lawn cemetery. The Odd Fellows will have charge of the services at the cemetery and Rev. R. W. Mottern of the First Lutheran church will preach the funeral discourse.

WILLIAM HENRY HINES

William Henry Hines of Sunnyslope, Cal., passed away at the Glendale sanitarium on June 14 at the age of 65 years, his death being due to cerebral hemorrhage. He leaves a wife, son and daughter of Chicago. The remains were shipped to Chicago for burial, accompanied by his wife. Arrangements were in charge of the Scovern - Letton - Frey Undertaking company.

TROPICO

Mrs. J. Herbert Smith, chairman of the hospitality committee of the Tropico Thursday Afternoon club, announces that the club luncheon will be served at 1 o'clock Thursday in the G. A. R. hall. Invitations have been accepted by over eighty ladies, which includes members and their guests. This luncheon marks the close of the club year.

Mrs. Frank I. Marsh of South Central avenue is enjoying a visit in Hollywood as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. N. L. Wheelock.

Mrs. Louise Purnell of West Tenth street returned from a pleasant visit in Redlands, where she motored earlier in the week.

Miss Emma Hagarty of Los Angeles and her guest, Miss M. L. McCracken of Montana, teacher of English in the high school, enjoyed the senior class play Tuesday evening—"Daddy Longlegs."

All the small boys in Tropico and Glendale are calling on Eugene Imler at his home on West Park avenue and there laying in the supply of Fourth of July fireworks. All of young Imler's customers of last year are returning and as each one brings a friend or two, Imler is kept quite busy. He recently received a shipment of five hundred pounds, which is going rapidly. Eugene has also opened a stand at Park and San Fernando road and there he disposes of his goods, as well as at his home.

Tropico citizens who attended the senior class play, "Daddy Longlegs," are extending congratulations to Miss Dorothy Hobbs, who as Judy Abbott, and Basil Boon as Jervis Pendleton, leading characters in the play, acquitted themselves in such a delightful and creditable manner. Miss Hobbs and Mr. Boon are two of Tropico's most talented students, who are to be graduated tomorrow evening from the high school.

new telephone. Her maid, Susie (Essie Hamilton) gives her good support. Judy and Jervis had become great friends and she is disappointed because he does not come to see her after all their good fellowship. Her anomalous position weighs on her and she breaks down and tells Sallie McBride all her trouble. Sallie tries to comfort her. Meantime Jervis arrives and after some conversation, asks Judy to marry him. She refuses sadly and mutely. This was probably the best act of the four as far as dramatic power was concerned, and the whole presentation of Judy here was excellent.

The fourth act sees Jervis in trouble. Judy, who has become a famous author, has refused him. He thinks she is going to marry young McBride. He meets with a gunshot accident and resolves to write her, telling her that she has his blessing. Meantime his sister Julia finds opportunity to tell him that she is going to marry young McBride. Pendleton is joyful. Miss Pritchard resolves to clear up the misunderstanding and invites Judy to Jervis' house to see her "guardian." With clever setting, in which Griggs (Owen Dibbern) as Jervis' secretary; Walters, the butler (Purman Bennett); a maid (Marian Monroe), and H. Darwin Kirschmann as the doctor, add greatly to the comedy of the act and give it an air of naturalness, the denouement takes place. Judy finds out that "Daddy Longlegs" and her lover, Jervis, are one and the same individual and all goes merry as a wedding bell.

As Judy, Dorothy Hobbs not only looked the part to the life, but also acted it with great natural acumen and talent. Her histrionic powers should develop into the first rank. She has wonderful femininity, indefinable charm and intense feeling, rather rare in so young a girl.

Basil Boon was an excellent "Daddy Longlegs," portraying the difficult part with great realism and interpretation. Merlin Wilson played the irrepressible college boy to the life and afterward gave a good presentation of the "gauche" young business fellow.

Inez McKinney, as Miss Pritchard, showed herself not only a good actress, but also a sweet and lady-like young woman, full of real sympathy and kindliness. Maybeth Pigg had only to be her sweet self to give a charming and clever picture of the young, active and up-to-date college girl, full of life, independent and yet brimful of common sense.

As Mrs. Pendleton, Pauline Hamilton was admirably cold and aristocratic. Altogether, the young people are to be congratulated on their clever work.

Under the able direction of Mrs. Dora L. Gibson, the high school orchestra discoursed appropriate music. This is another high school organization deserving of the highest praise. Interpreting Gounod's "Faust" with appreciation and playing the difficult "Bohemian Girl" music with taste and skill, they specially excelled themselves in the overture, "America," playing the patriotic airs with marked tune and accent.

The play will be repeated tonight and will probably delight again as large an audience as that which filled the school auditorium last night and enjoyed every bit of the program.

VALLEY VIEW

Miss Margaret May LaCom of 1447 Oak street, accompanied by her uncle and aunt, Mr. B. C. Levy and wife, and their daughter, Dorothy, of Los Angeles, went to San Diego last Saturday. They will visit other points of interest before returning. Mr. Levy is employed by the Los Angeles Trust and Savings bank. On their return Miss LaCom will visit with the Levys at their home, 924 Forty-eighth street, Los Angeles.

Mr. Wright, the jeweler, has moved into W. R. Walker's house at 1565 West Seventh street.

C. Vivrett and wife, who recently sold their home at 1559 Vine street, moved to Long Beach Tuesday to spend the summer. They will then go back to their old home in Pontiac, Illinois.

Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Hartmann of 210 Dayton court left this week for St. Paul, Minn., to visit their daughter, Mrs. Richard Lott. They will return to Glendale in September and spend the winter here. A farewell dinner was given in their honor by Mrs. K. LaCom, 1447 Oak street; also a reception was tendered them by Mrs. L. C. Flutot, 1512 Oak street.

To put yourself in the other fellow's place is putting into practice the doctrine of doing as you would be done by—and if one can't track that trail he is a skunk living in a guinea-pig's hole!

He who abuses a horse is not as good as that horse—the man who will beat a horse will abuse a wife when he is mad, unless he is askeered she'll lick or leave him.

Liquor and sound business do not mix—the man who prefers a boozer is a candidate for the lunatic asylum.

BOOKLOVERS GIVE DELIGHTFUL BANQUET

When the ladies of the literary section of the Tuesday Afternoon club assembled for their annual luncheon at the home of Mrs. E. H. Willisford on Orange street, Tuesday afternoon, they were greeted with a beautiful sight. The large rooms were beautifully decorated in pink and white. On the handsomely appointed table stood tall Marie Antoinette baskets filled with pink sweet peas and asparagus ferns. Hand-painted place cards and pink favors in the shape of cut-out monograms, "L. S," signifying "literary section," gave distinction to the luncheon setting.

Mrs. E. H. Willisford, with the aid of a committee of arrangements consisting of Mrs. S. L. Thompson, Mrs. W. S. Nash and Mrs. Minnie Patterson, saw that everything ran smoothly. The decorations for the table were the work of Mrs. Jesse Joseph, while Miss Calla Porter attended to the decorations of the rooms. The waitresses were Miss Alice Patterson, Miss Erma Patterson and Carol Willisford.

The following program of toasts delighted the company:

"The Past Club Year;" this was to have been responded to by Mrs. Mattison B. Jones, retiring president of the club, but as she was unavoidably absent, she sent her response in the shape of a poem, which was read.

"The Year to Come" was responded to by Mrs. H. E. Bartlett, the newly elected president of the club.

Miss Knepper of the high school responded to the toast, "Our Annual Luncheon."

Mrs. C. E. Harlan responded to "The Retiring President."

Mrs. C. E. Hutchinson to "Our New President."

Mrs. A. L. Weaver to "The Literary Section."

Mrs. Harriet White to "Our Program for the Year."

Mrs. Willisford acted as toastmistress and won golden opinions of all for the tact, ability and versatility she displayed in the discharge of her pleasant duties.

Mrs. White and Mrs. George Adams at the close of the program of toasts presented Mrs. E. H. Willisford with a basket beautifully decorated with flowers. This of itself was a kindly and beautiful recognition of Mrs. Willisford's unselfish labors in behalf of the club and of the section; but when the recipient looked below the flowers, she found a little bag of gold lace and in it a $10 gold piece, a token from the members of the esteem in which their hostess is held. Mrs. Willisford made a suitable reply. On the conclusion of this presentation the whole company sang with much feeling, "Blest Be the Tie That Binds." Then followed an informal program of songs and readings. Throughout all the utmost harmony and good feeling prevailed. Indeed, the good feeling and kindly fellowship that characterizes this section of the Tuesday Afternoon club has been the occasion of much appreciative comment all through the past year. If the literary section had done nothing more than bind these good hearts together, it would have accomplished a great work.

FLY CATECHISM

1. Where is the house fly born? In filth, chiefly in horse manure and outhouses.

2. How long is the life cycle of his birth? About ten days from the time the egg is laid until the manure fly is born.

3. What are the steps in the transformation from the egg to the fly? The egg, the maggott, the pupa, the fly.

4. Where does the fly live? Where there is filth.

5. Is there anything too filthy for the fly to eat? No.

6. Does the fly like clean food, too? Yes, and it appears to be his delight to wipe his feet on clean food.

7. Where is his favorite place of feeding? The manure heap and the garbage can.

8. Where does the fly go after leaving the manure pile and the garbage can? Into the kitchen, dining-room and bedroom.

9. What does he do in the kitchen, dining-room and bedroom? He wipes his feet on the food, bathes in the milk and annoys the sleeper.

10. Does the fly visit those sick with typhoid fever, consumption, smallpox and cholera infantum? He certainly does, and may call on you next.

11. Is the fly dangerous? Yes, he spreads disease.

12. How does he spread disease? By carrying infection on his legs and wings, and by "fly specks" after he has been feeding on infectious material.

13. What disease may the fly thus carry? He may convey typhoid fever, tuberculosis, cholera, dysentery and "summer complaint."

14. Did the fly ever kill anyone? He killed more American soldiers in the Spanish-American war than the bullets of the Spaniards, and was the direct cause of much of the typhoid fever in Kansas last year.

15. Where are the greatest number of cases of typhoid fever and summer complaint? Where there are the most flies.

16. Where are the most flies? Where there is the most filth.

17. Is the presence of flies therefore an indication of nearby filth? It most certainly it, and that is disgraceful.

18. How may we successfully fight the fly? By destroying or removing his breeding place, the manure pile, removing all garbage and making the vault flyproof, and by keeping our yard and alley clean; by screening the house; by the use of the wire swatter and sticky fly paper.

TRAINING TWO BOYS WITH ADVICE, BUT NO SWITCH

My boys used to spend too much time preparing for bed, remarked a mother. It would often take them a half hour to undress. No amount of persuading was to any avail till I made the rule that when it took so long to get to bed, they would have to go so much earlier the next night. Now they can be in bed in five minutes. One of the boys had a habit of bolting his food, then asking to be excused from the table, till I told him that in the future he would not be excused till the rest of the family were ready to leave the table. He decided there was nothing to be gained by fast eating and now takes more time to eat.

DELEGATES TO CONFERENCE

In response to thousands of invitations sent to the leading social, civic and welfare experts of every state in the Union, by the central committee of the National Congress on Recreation, which will meet under the auspices of the Panama-Pacific International exposition from July 5 to 10, a dozen governors and more than three score mayors of the principal cities have officially appointed delegates to the great conference at San Francisco.
